Proposed Effective Term and Year

Fall 2026

Justification

Program Justification

The Department of Chicana & Chicano Studies proposes the creation of a new undergraduate certificate program on traditional/integrative healing titled: "Curanderismo: Hispanic Concepts of Traditional Healing". The Department of Chicana & Chicano Studies already offers 3 courses on Hispanic traditional healing in-person and online. These courses are CCS 306/506, CCS 307/507, CCS 308/508.

The Curanderismo Traditional Medicine course has been taught every year at the UNM Main Campus for the last 25 years by former VP for Student Affairs at UNM, Dr. Eliseo Cheo Torres. No other series of courses on Curanderismo Hispanic/Latino/Chicano/Mexican traditional healing exist at the University of New Mexico or any other university in the state or out of the state in the United States. The courses enroll approximately 500 students on an annual basis.

Pre-proposal Executive Summary ⓘ <ul style="list-style-type: none">Undergraduate Certificate Curanderismo.pdfUPDATED Pre-proposal Excutive Summary.docx
Program Duplication A search on curriculum, courses and existing programs including certificates has not yielded any results on a certificate on Hispanic traditional healing. More importantly, several departments and colleges across the main and north campuses have reached out to the Department of Chicana and Chicano Studies to request cross listings with the Curanderismo courses so that their students can take this class for credit in their department. Departments with which Chicana & Chicano Studies crosslists include:	Correspondence

In the Main campus: Latin American Studies; Language, Literacy and Sociocultural Studies; Anthropology; History; Women, Gender and Sexuality Studies; Religious Studies, Native American Studies, Africana Studies, and the Honors College.

In the North Campus: The College of Pharmacy, College of Nursing.

Crosslistings with Chicana & Chicano Studies satisfy the current demand for students in other departments, colleges and campuses to learn about this topic.

Catalog Information

Program Description

The certificate in Curanderismo Hispanic Concepts of Traditional Healing is suited for UNM degree-seeking students who are interested in pursuing a special focus in culturally competent and community defined traditional concepts of healing in the Hispanic world. The certificate explores how our Mexican/Chicano/Hispanic/Latino ancestors used traditional healing methods in the U.S. southwest and Mexico to help diminish minor ailments of the mind, body and spirit. The certificate is intended for individuals seeking to enhance their knowledge and understanding of how our ancestors shaped our cultural diversity in yesteryears and today, and what the future of this medicine might be in sociocultural terms.

Admissions Requirements

This is not a transcribed, independent certificate. It will only be available for degree-seeking students from a variety of disciplines across the university system.

Graduation Requirements

A grade point average of at least 3.0 is required in all courses. Summer course CCS 307 must be taken in the face-to-face course format.

CCS 393/506 will be the course CCS 306/506 which is currently under review to change the numbering to CCS 306.
